

Level Two Individuate Ceremony

Temple Arrangement

In the N, a gorilla symbolic of the earth. Mammalian pride in vastness, in big muscles.

In the South, a Wolf of lightning and air. Ferocity, speed and rhythm as a totem of mammalian combat assertion.

W, fire dragon. E, water dragon. A fire dragon: the instant and only simple state advance/retreat being, such as a snake, attacks. The water dragon - at peace in familiarity. That dragon = big snake: maybe mammalian pride is mammal starting and enlarged by how rapidly grassland love evolves the mind and brain.

Facing the fire dragon, to the right a turtle foundation. The id at peace in meditative safety. Incense on SE corner, altar to the individual enduring the initiation on NE corner, incense & cup of igniting on the altar.

Before the interrogation, Individuate enters the temple, ignites incense of renewal, burns symbol for last phase of evolution, halts to calmly observe Initiator's instructions. Incense burning may be meditated on as love extracting insecurities from the complex.

Initiator: We stand in the temple, alone with everything and everyone.

(about 5 seconds of silent contemplation, "!" = pride flaring up)

Initiator: Where is God?

Individuate: Thou art God!

Initiator: Where is the Temple?

Individuate: Thou art the Temple!

Initiator: Where is the City?

Individuate: Thou art the City!

Initiator: Why are you here?

Individuate: Individuation!

Initiator: What's up?

Individuate: Down!

Initiate: May blinding light radiate fourth from your pores!

After the interrogation, Initiator exits room and Individuate burns Wolf side incense. Symbolizes that proud assertiveness as an initiation permeates subconscious or conscious mindfulness during a stage of progress unto the next initiation. The incense continues burning because pride is purified until Individuation 3.
