

Level One Individuate Ceremony

Temple Arrangement

North Side, a primate statue or picture to signify mammalian aspect of human psychology.

West Side, all light symbolized by the lighting of a candle.

South Side, a reptilian photo or homunculi to signify the 1st Circuit, the reptilian mind. The region of the mind initiatory mindfulness should explore during the ceremony.

The East Side has an altar, a piece of paper with a line to signify linear thinking, and a bowl or cup, black, to signify a black hole. Every particle placed within is incinerated (consumed).

There is the Initiator and the Candidate, all others attend in spirit.

Candidate stands in the corner of the room, Initiator standing in the center. Initiator asks the Candidate, "Are you standing in your corner?"

Initiator says, "We are breathing the same air, and this air is connected with all other air. The floor you are standing on influences every other floor, And belongs to the air."

Initiator asks, "Can you walk a straight line?"

Initiator places paper in the Black Hole and, while igniting, says, "There are no straight lines in nature."

Initiator says, "Leave your corner in safety, approach--"

Candidate does so and Initiator says, "Die!" and Candidate is (symbolically only) stabbed. Candidate falls flat across the center of the room (which should be prepared comfortably).

Initiator lights candle and says, "Emerge from the darkness to face the infinite light."

Initiator leaves the room.

Candidate stands, spends a few moments silently contemplating, blows out the candle and leaves the room, Ending the ritual.
